

Enhance your skills in education with WOU

TO address the need to equip working professionals with the necessary skills and knowledge in the education sector, Wawasan Open University (WOU) is offering the Master of Education (MEd) programme to boost their academic careers.

WOU through its School of Education, Languages and Communications (SELC) introduced the MEd programme in Teaching English as a Second Language (TESL) in July 2012, followed by MEd in Education Management in July 2014.

The programme is designed to cater to the demand for professional qualifications in the education sector and improve the standard of services in educational institutions.

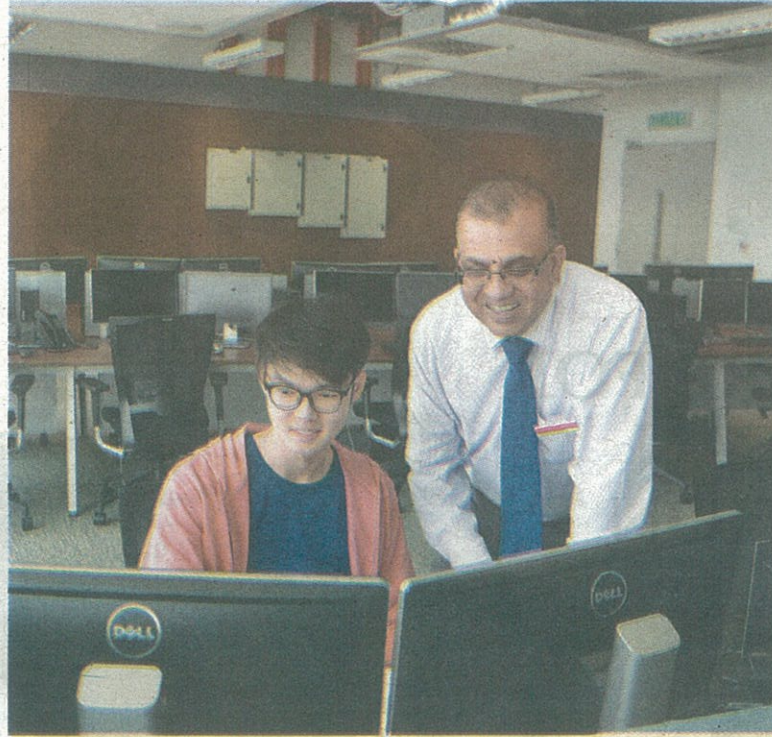

In line with this, WOU is expanding its MEd programme to include the specialised field of E-Learning, commencing from its January 2019 intake.

The E-Learning specialisation focuses on translating text-based curriculum into online and interactive learning materials. Learners will learn to design and develop high quality online courses and e-portfolios which host their lesson plan and showcase their professional development experiences.

Apart from the MEd programme, the University is also offering industry-relevant Masters' programmes such as the Commonwealth Executive Master of Business Administration (CeMBA), MBA in Construction Management (MBA-CM), and MBA in Manufacturing and Production Management (MBA-MPM).

Over 23,000 working professionals have to date seized the learning opportunities offered by WOU, out of which more than 3,600 have graduated since 2010.

The programme is designed to cater to the demand for professional qualifications in the education sector.