Also present was Penang Global Tourism’s chief executive officer, Ooi Chok Yan along with representatives from several colleges here.

Among them were the DISTED College, Equator College, Golden Chef Culinary Academy, Han Chiang University College of Communications, IPK College, Peninsula College Georgetown, RCSI & UCD Malaysia Campus, UOW Malaysia KDU Penang University College, SENTRAL College Penang, Stradford International College, TAR UC Penang Branch Campus, The One Academy Penang, Wawasan Open University & Clinical Hypnotherapy Practitioners Malaysia.

“Penang has top-class internationally recognised colleges and universities as we move forward becoming a world-class education hub.

“StudyPENANG was established to further help Penang become a globally renowned centre for education tourism, as well as leverage on the world-class facilities available to train and match increasing demand for young talents in multiple industries, said Yeoh in his address.

Meanwhile, Khoo added that the pandemic has made many to learn online and technologies on the virtual platform.

“Even conferences, trade shows, and professional meetings have gone virtual. This is why StudyPENANG decided to work on this project. Today’s event is done in collaboration with the young talents from various institutions,” said Khoo.
